A new retelling of The Fox and the Grapes

ART SLOT art/spread-02.png (PLACEHOLDER): vineyard reveal; grapes out of reach

Along a farm lane, Fern the fox sniffed the warm summer air.

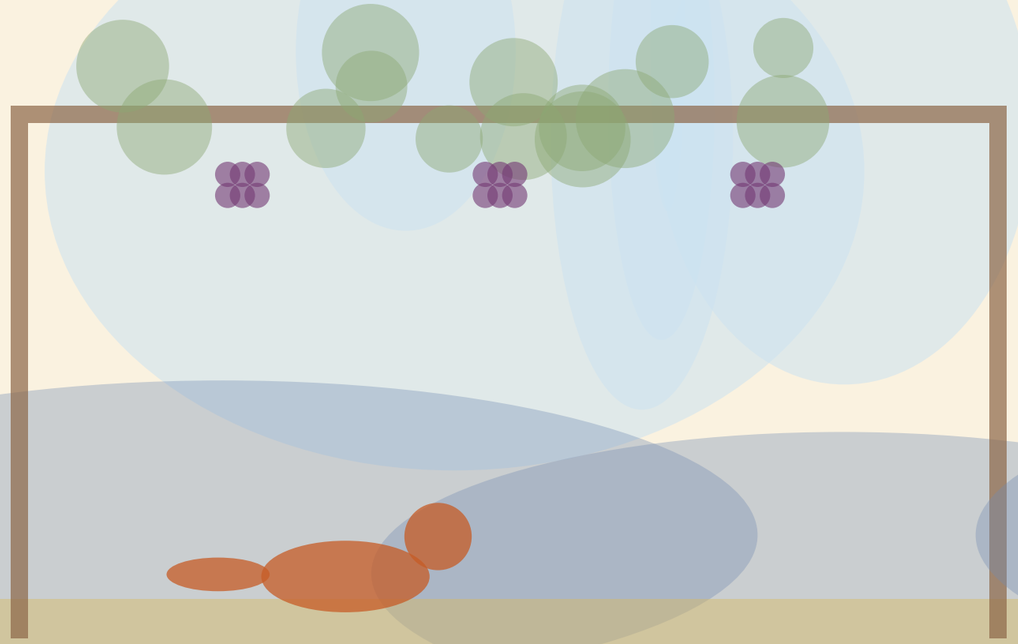

ART SLOT art/spread-02.png (PLACEHOLDER): vineyard reveal; grapes out of reach

Sweet grapes hung from a vine overhead. Fern’s tummy rumbled.

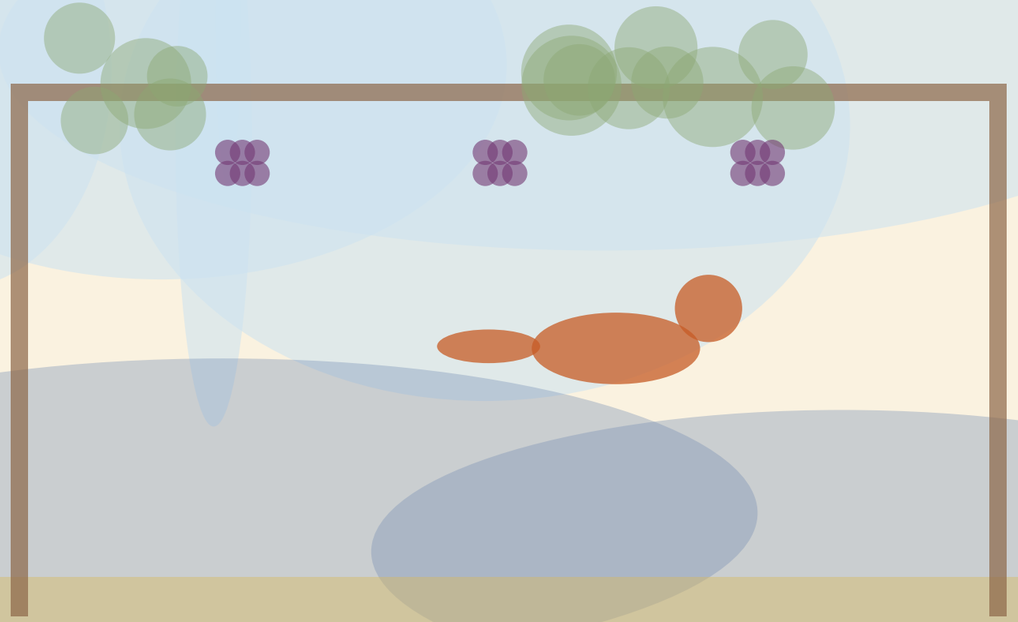

ART SLOT art/spread-03.png (PLACEHOLDER): robin; first jump

A robin perched beside a bunch. Fern wished she could reach it, too.

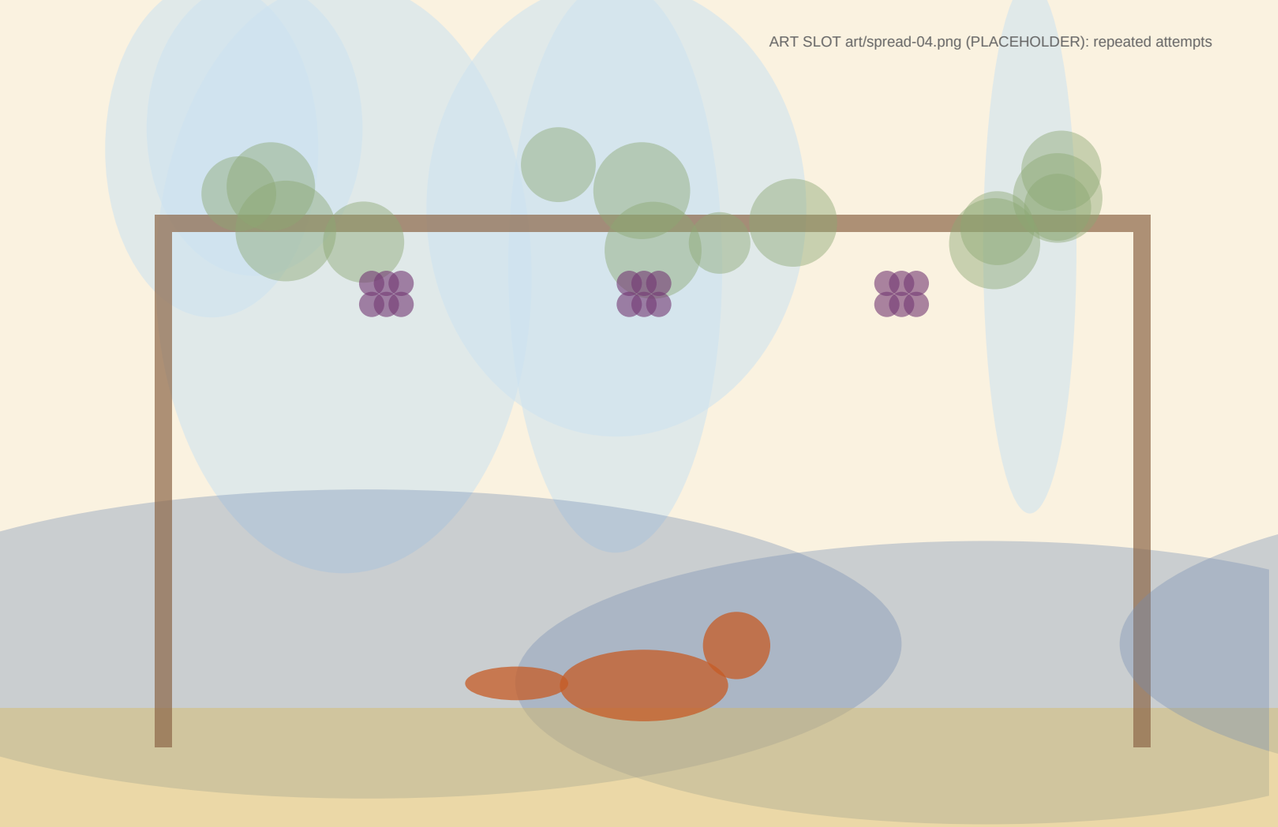

ART SLOT art/spread-03.png (PLACEHOLDER): robin; first jump

She crouched low, swished her tail, and sprang. Almost!

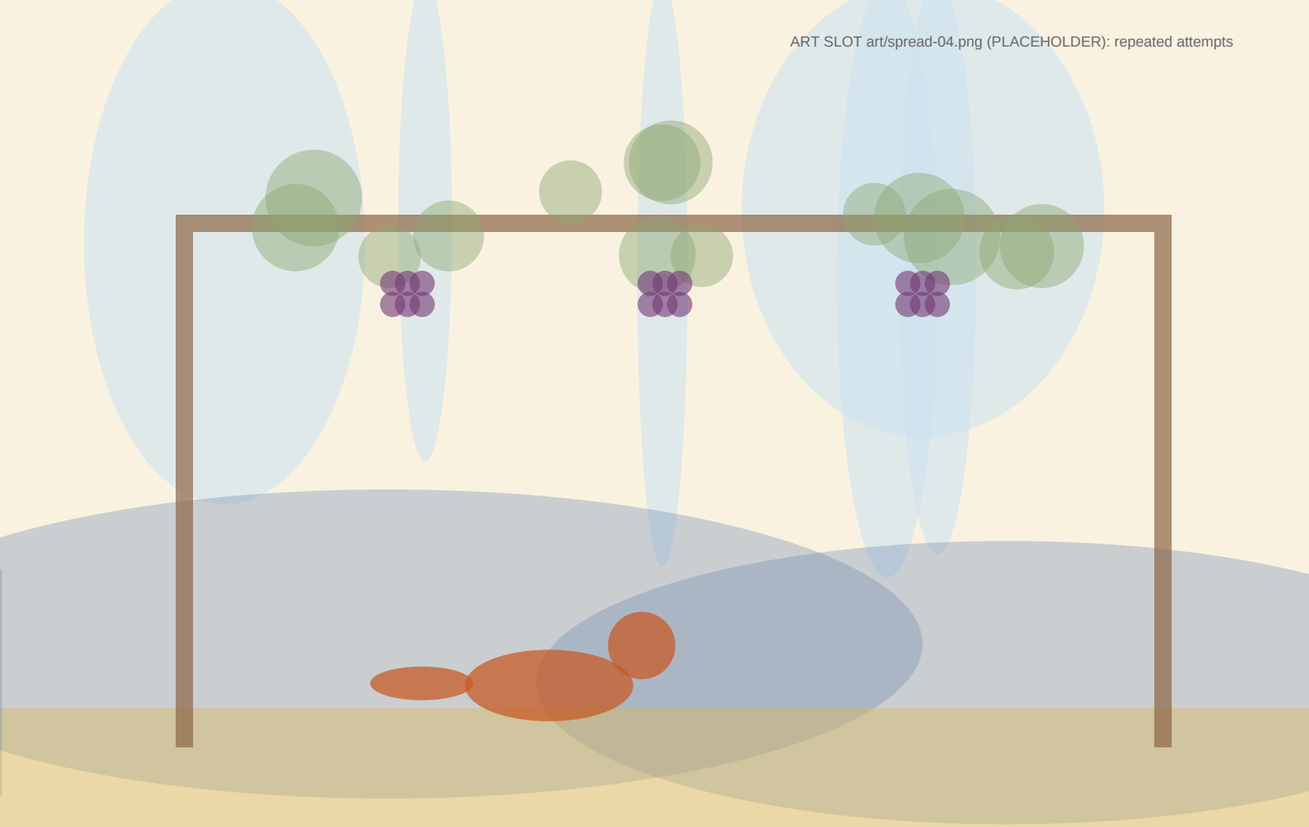

ART SLOT art/spread-04.png (PLACEHOLDER): repeated attempts

ART SLOT art/spread-04.png (PLACEHOLDER): repeated attempts

Up went her paws. Down came her paws. The grapes stayed high.

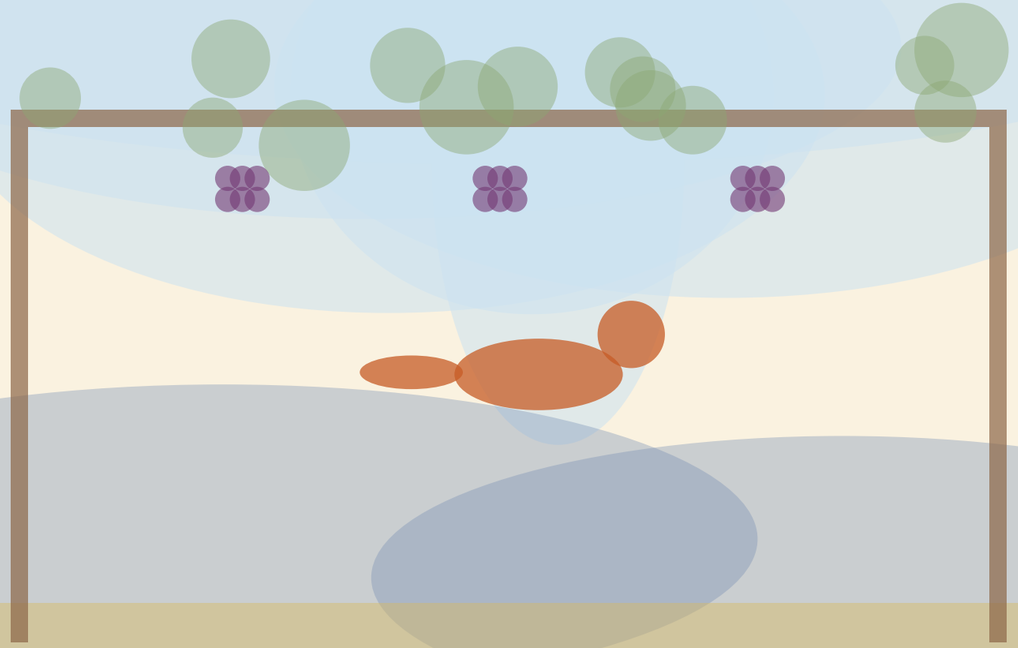

ART SLOT art/spread-05.png (PLACEHOLDER): big jump; soft landing

Fern backed up for one enormous jump.

Whoosh! Her nose brushed a leaf. Plop! She landed in the grass.

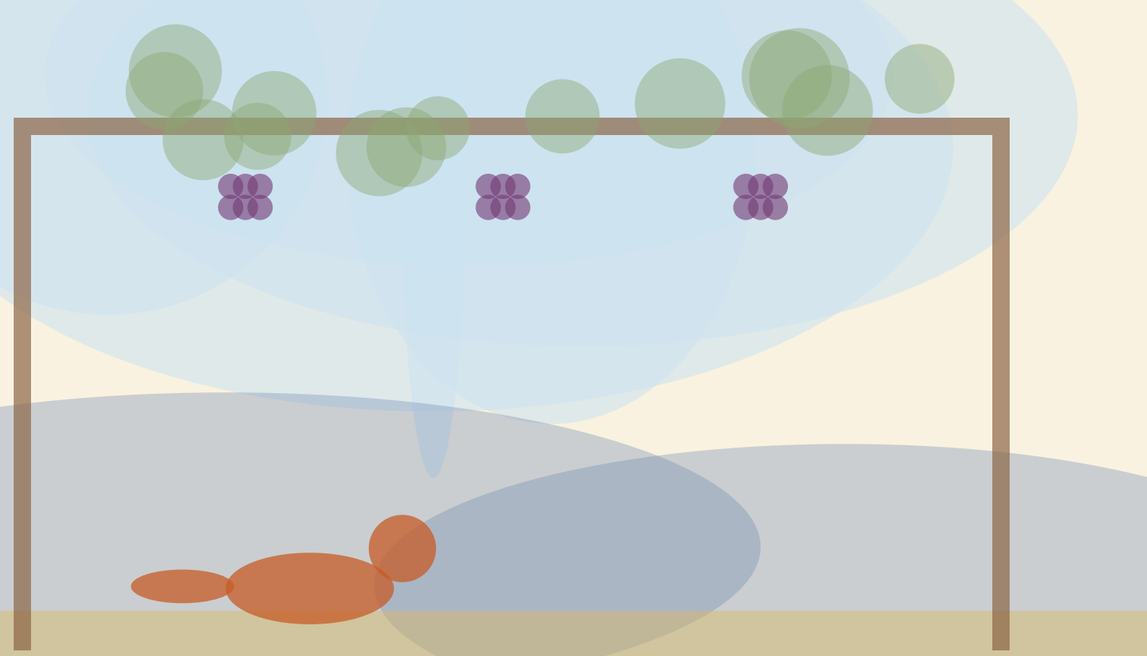

ART SLOT art/spread-06.png (PLACEHOLDER): resting below the grapes

Fern sat down, puffing. She was tired, hungry, and disappointed.

Above her, the grapes glowed purple in the sun.

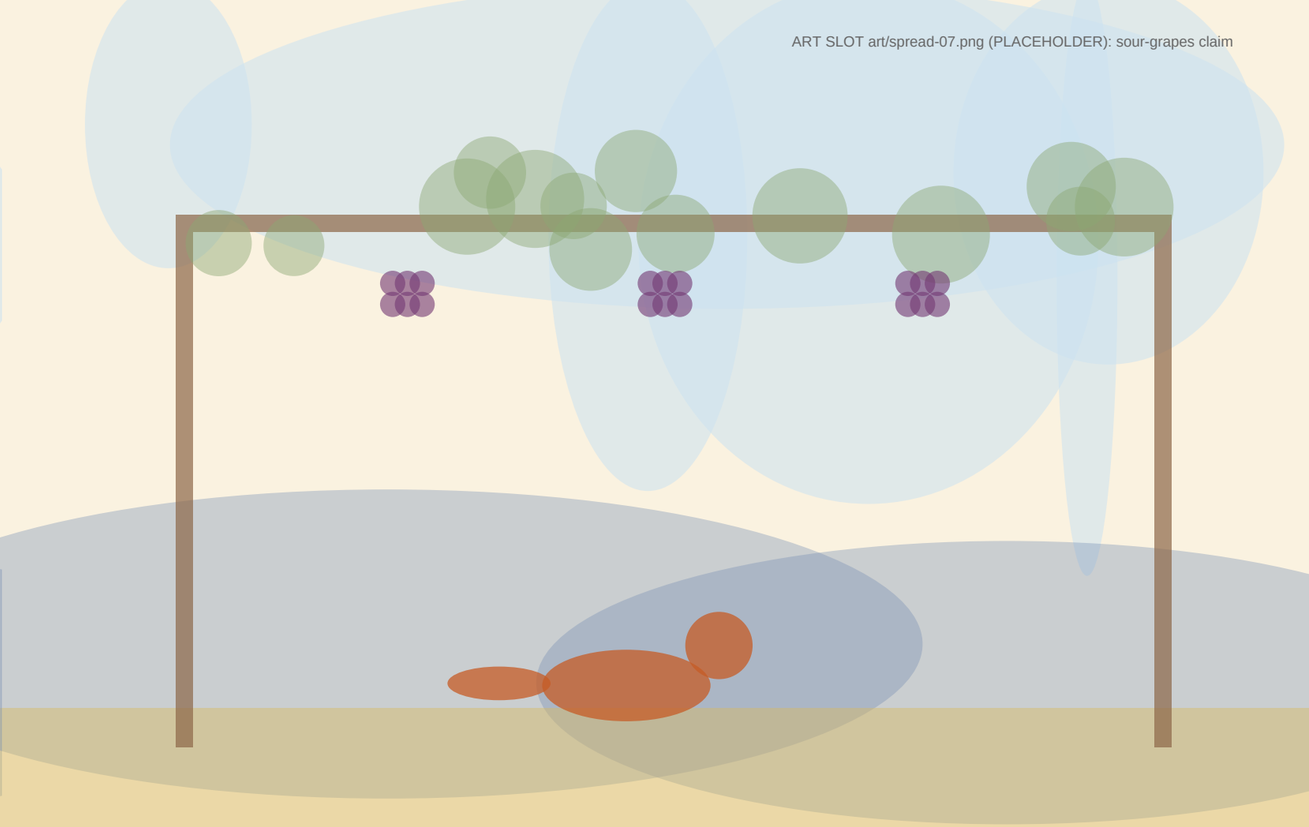

ART SLOT art/spread-07.png (PLACEHOLDER): sour-grapes claim

“They must be sour,” she grumbled. “I wouldn’t want them anyway.”

She turned away with her nose in the air.

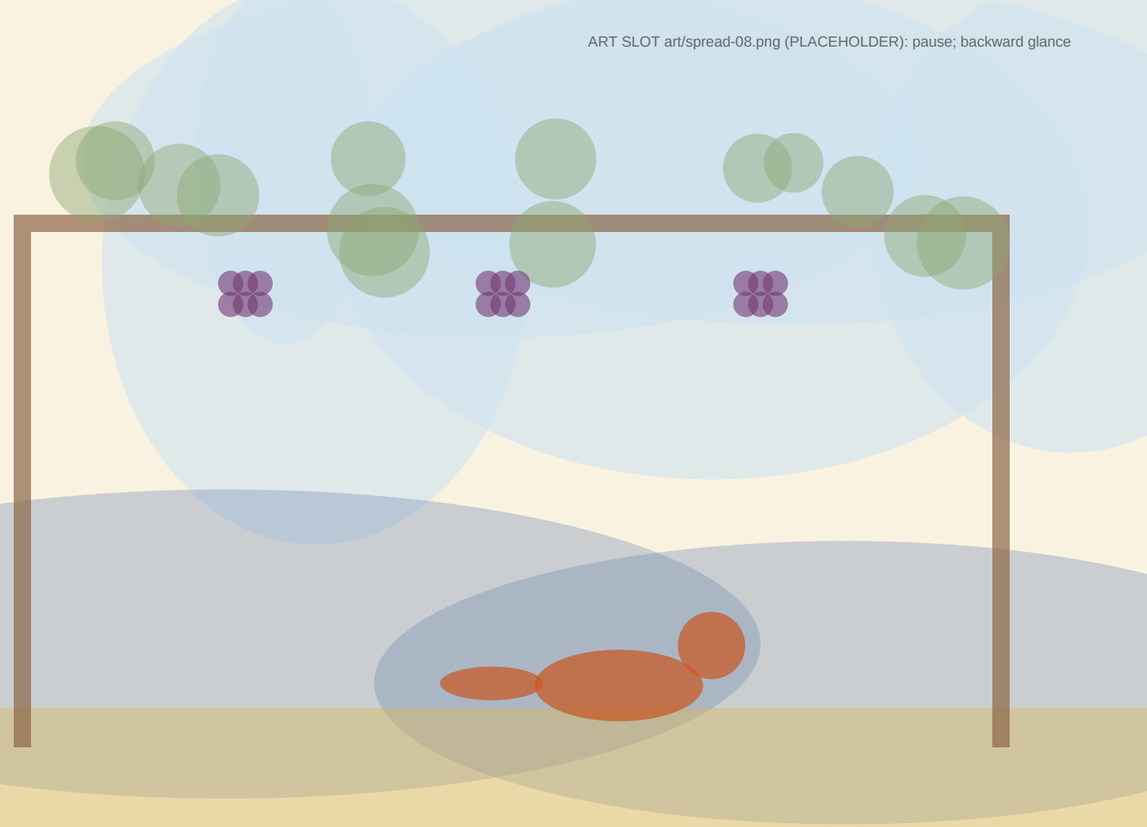

ART SLOT art/spread-08.png (PLACEHOLDER): pause; backward glance

But after a few steps, Fern stopped.

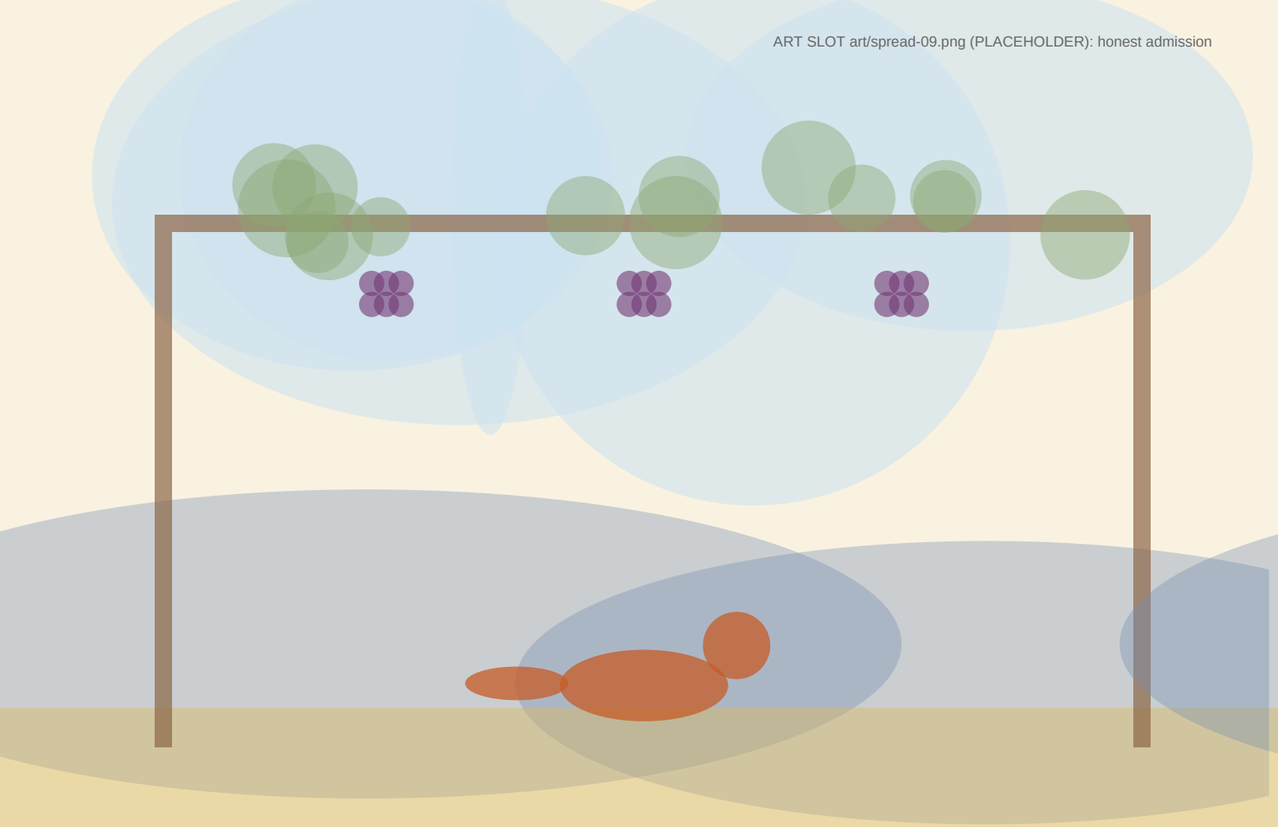

ART SLOT art/spread-08.png (PLACEHOLDER): pause; backward glance

She had not tasted even one grape. How could she know?

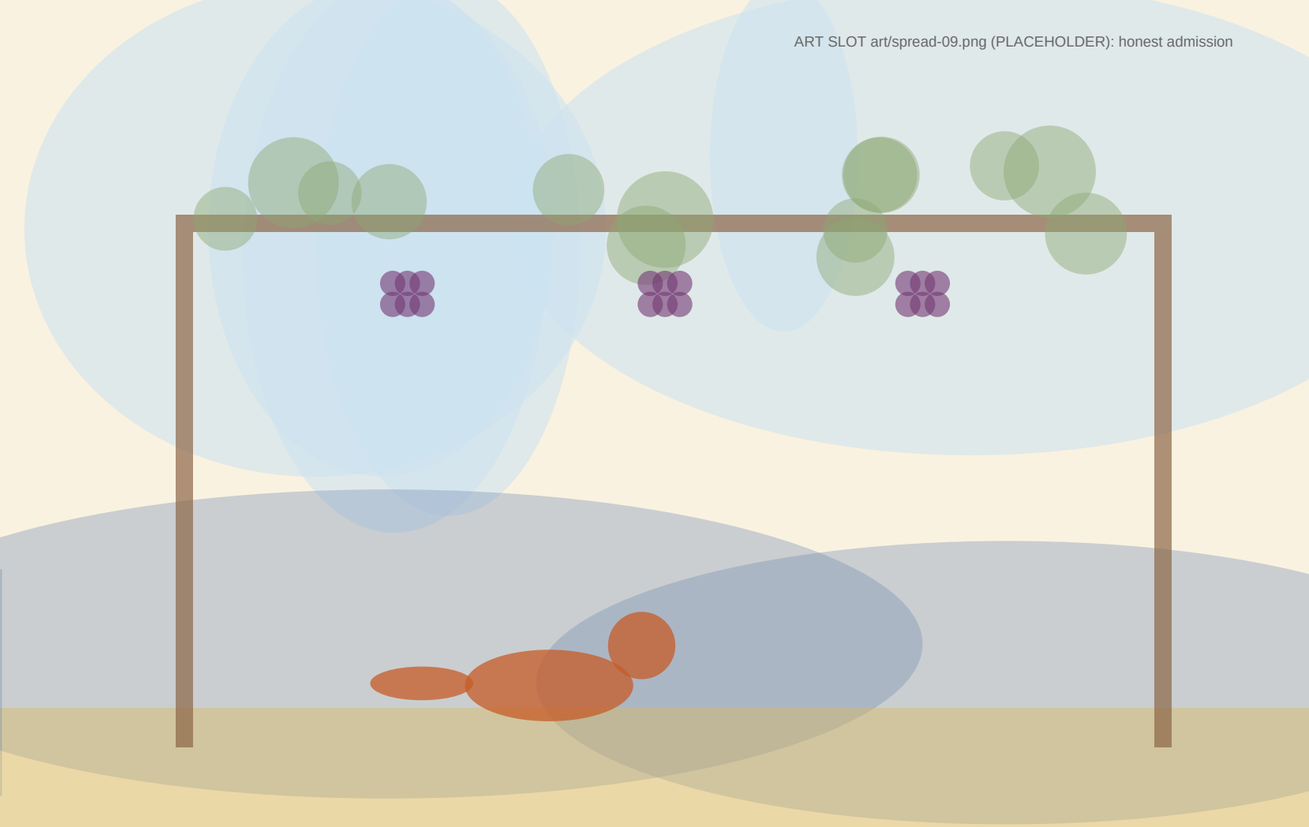

ART SLOT art/spread-09.png (PLACEHOLDER): honest admission

“I wanted them,” she admitted. “I’m upset because I can’t reach them.”

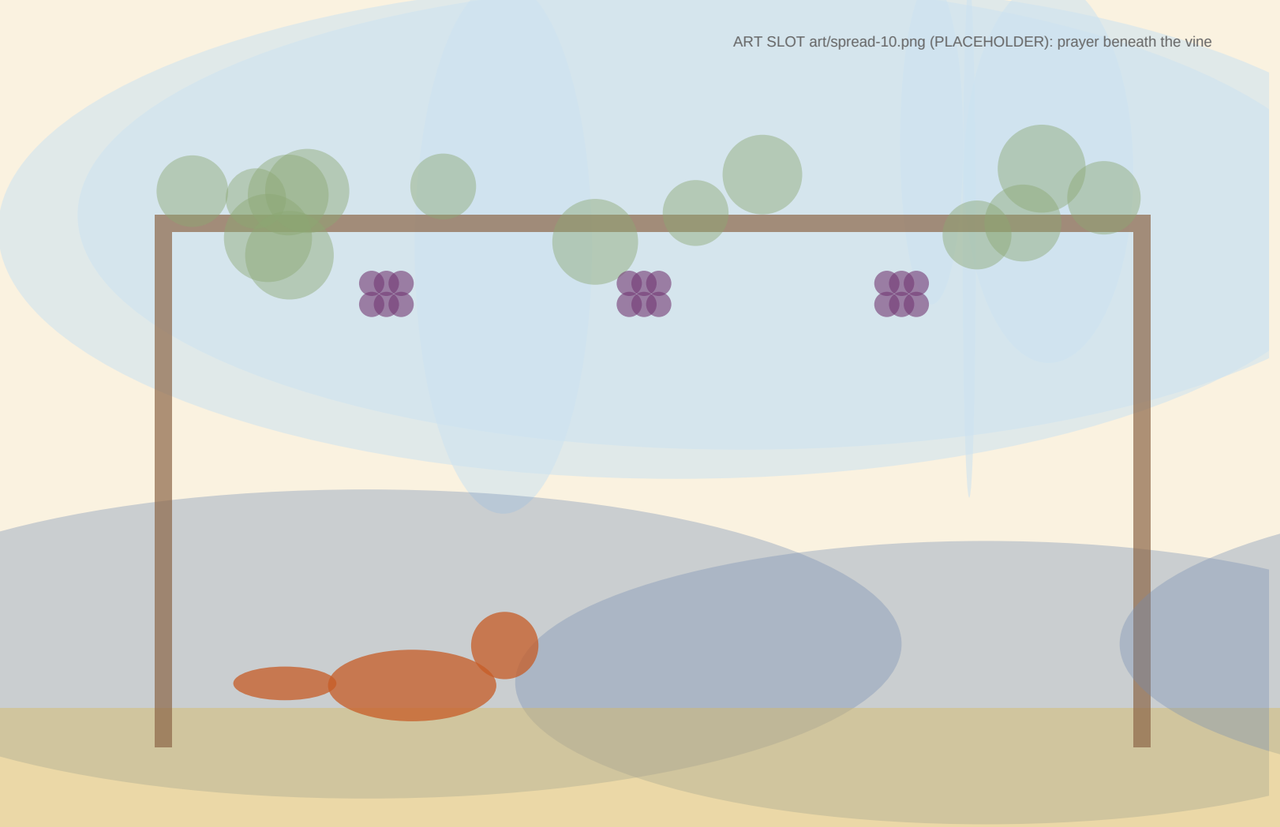

ART SLOT art/spread-09.png (PLACEHOLDER): honest admission

She let out a long, slow breath.

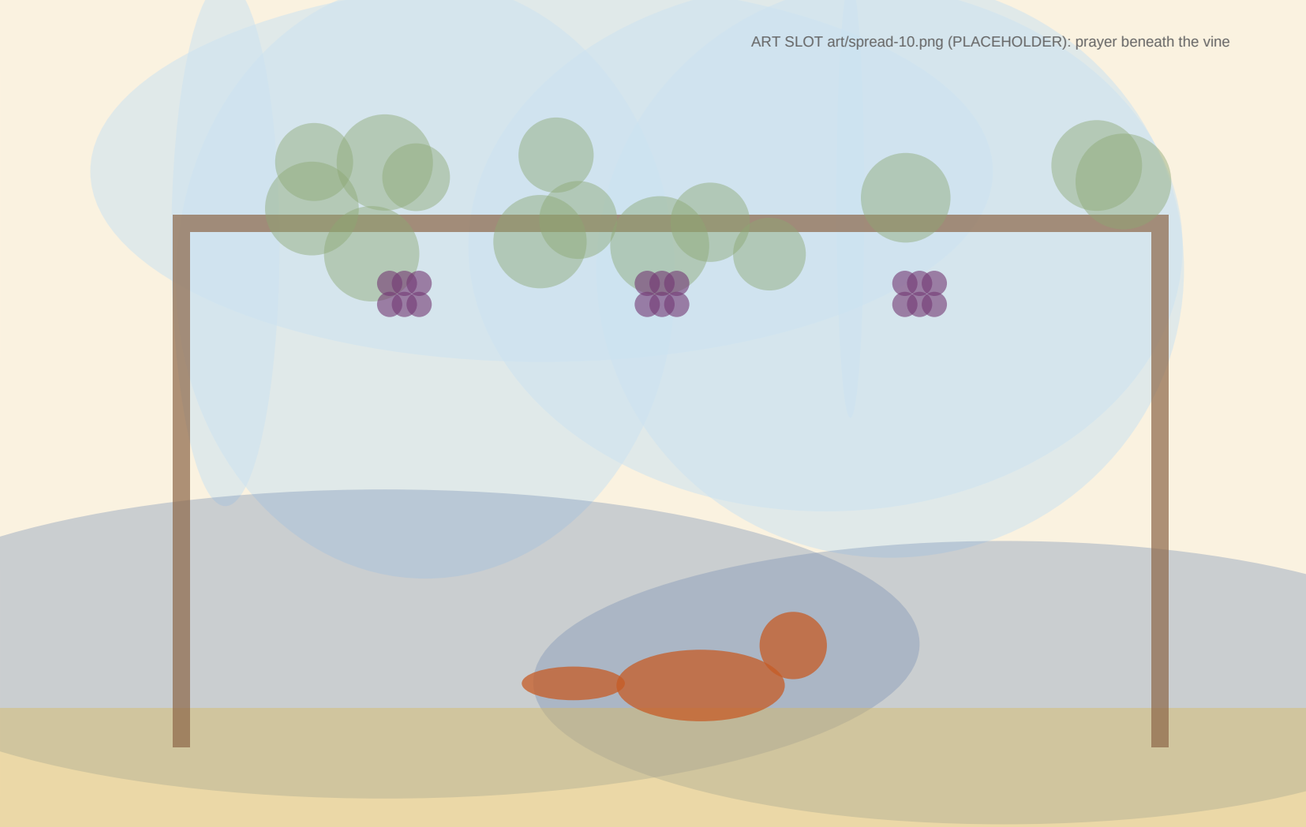

ART SLOT art/spread-10.png (PLACEHOLDER): prayer beneath the vine

“God, please help me tell the truth and be thankful.”

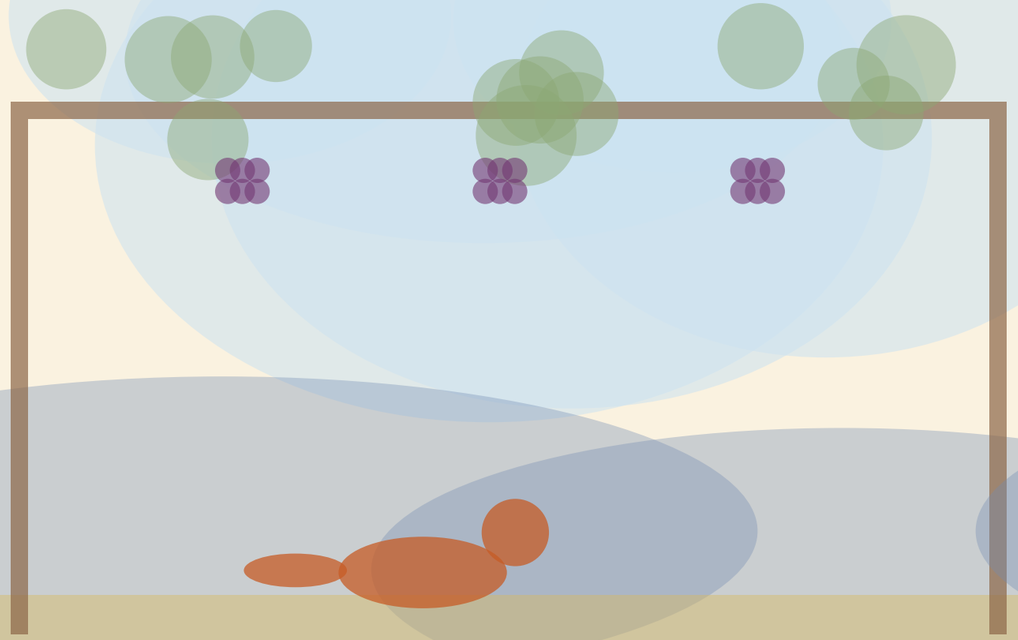

ART SLOT art/spread-10.png (PLACEHOLDER): prayer beneath the vine

The grapes still hung high. Fern’s tummy still rumbled.

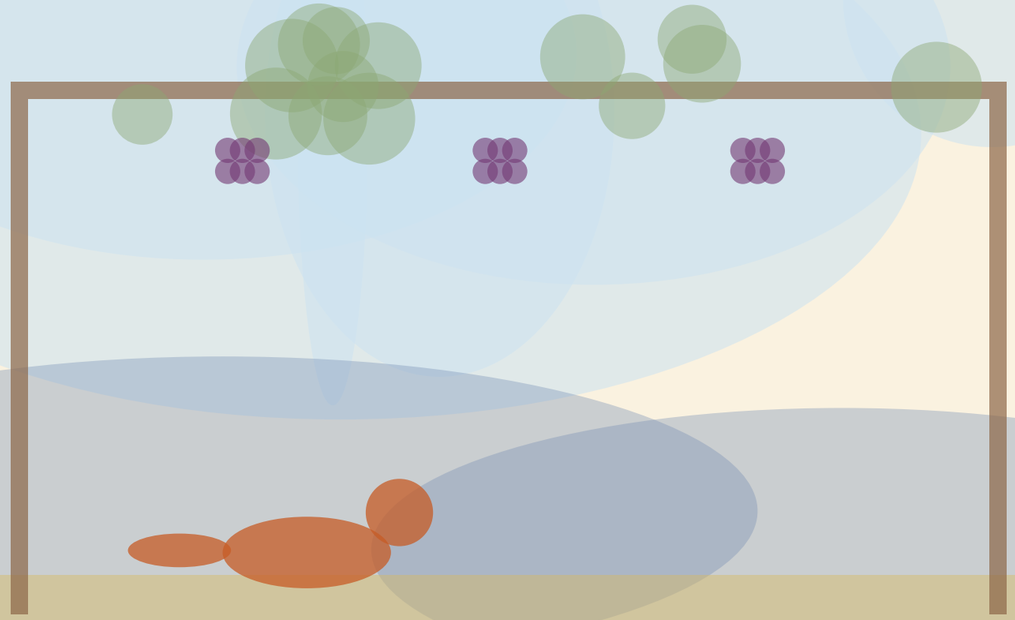

ART SLOT art/spread-11.png (PLACEHOLDER): calm look up

She could be disappointed without saying something unkind.

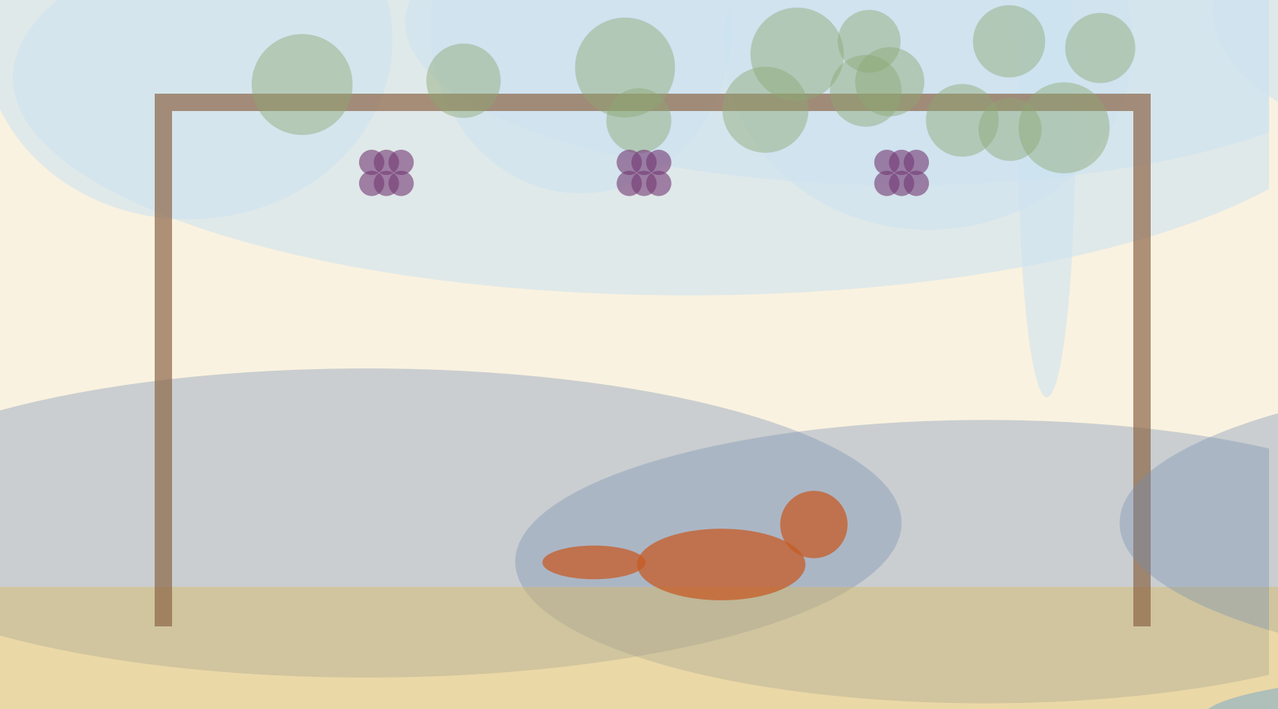

ART SLOT art/spread-11.png (PLACEHOLDER): calm look up

“You may be perfectly good grapes,” she said.

ART SLOT art/spread-12.png (PLACEHOLDER): toward the creek

“I just can’t reach you today.”

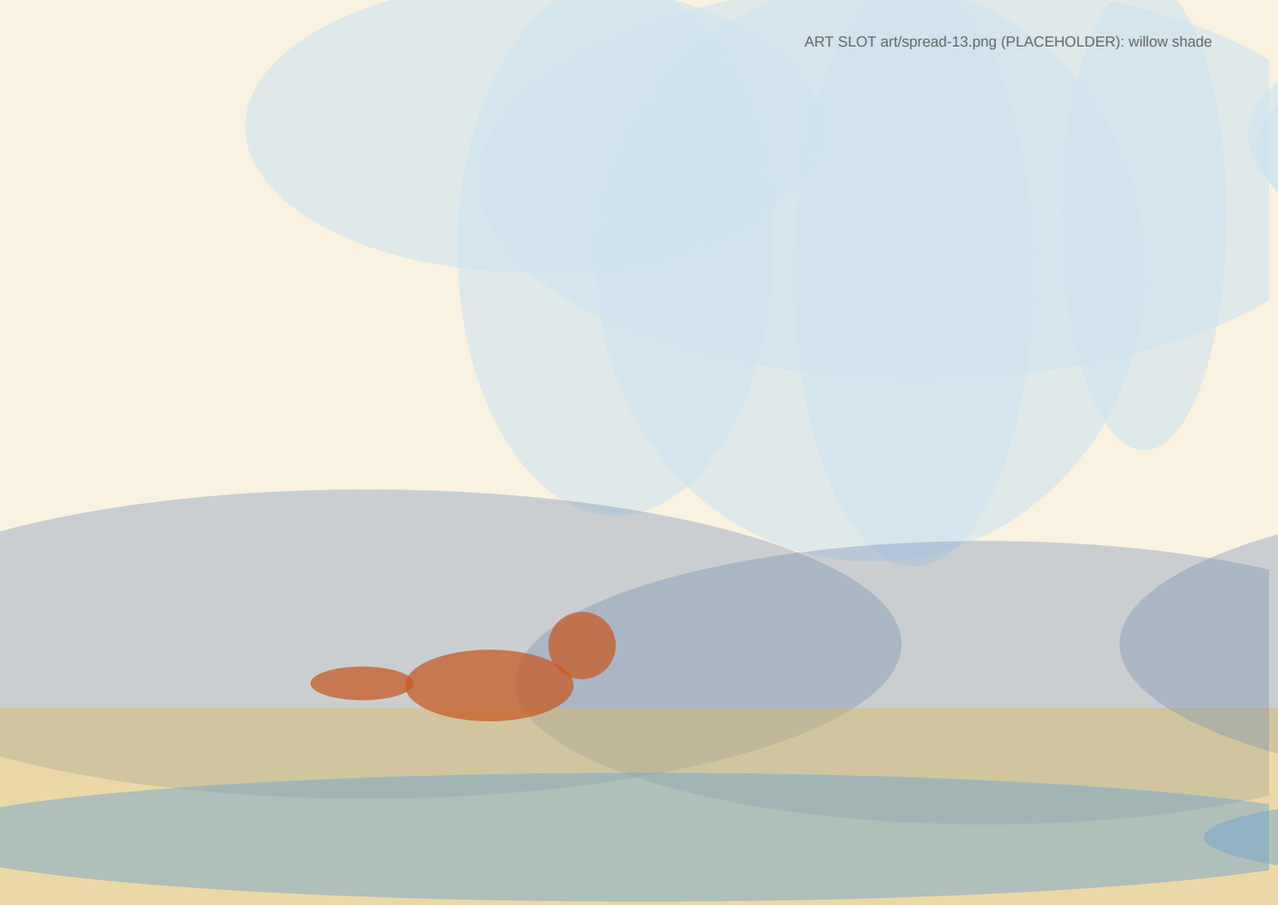

ART SLOT art/spread-12.png (PLACEHOLDER): toward the creek

Fern padded to the shady creek and took a cool drink.

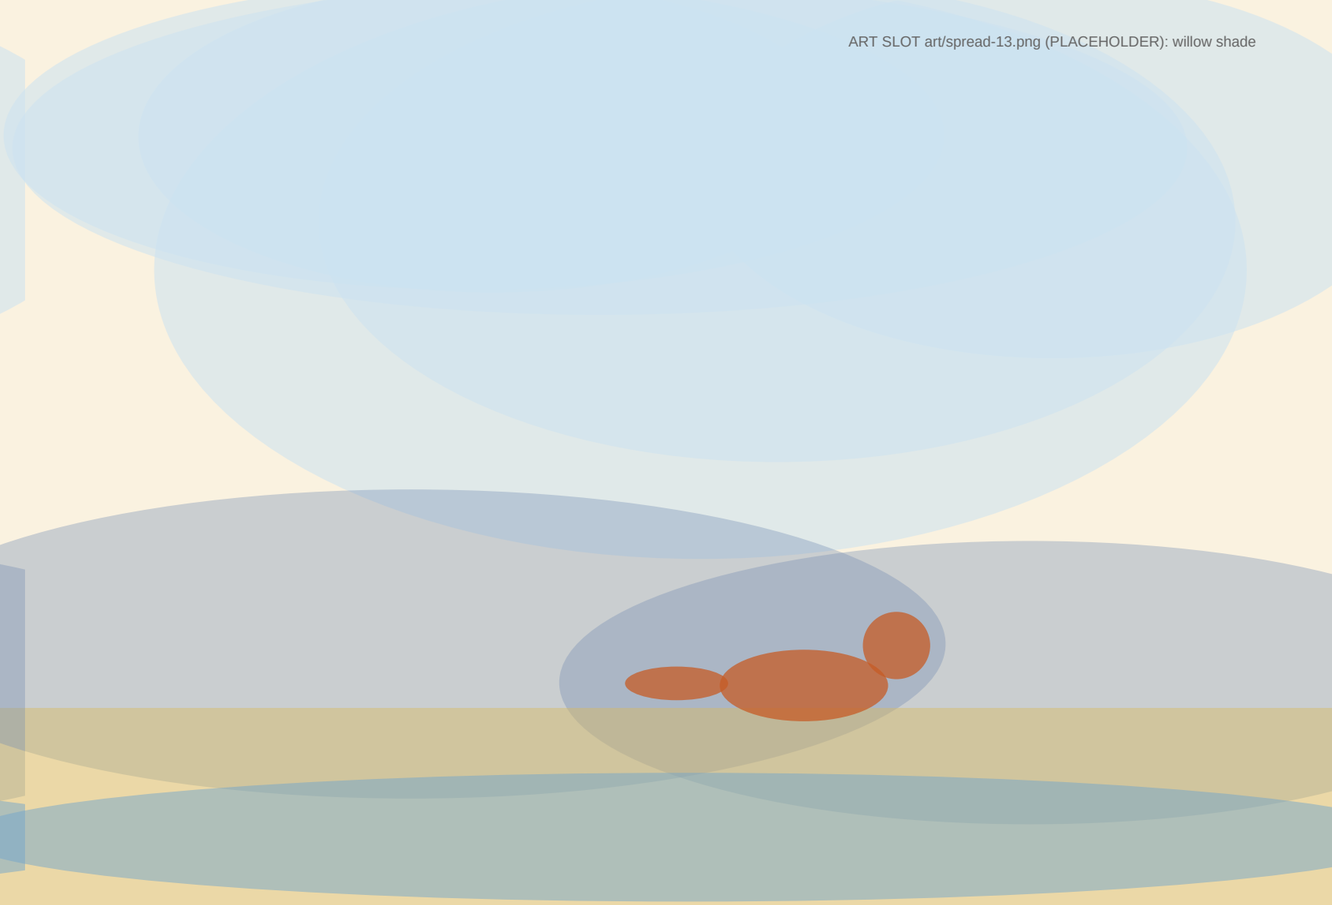

ART SLOT art/spread-13.png (PLACEHOLDER): willow shade

Then she rested her tired paws beneath a willow.

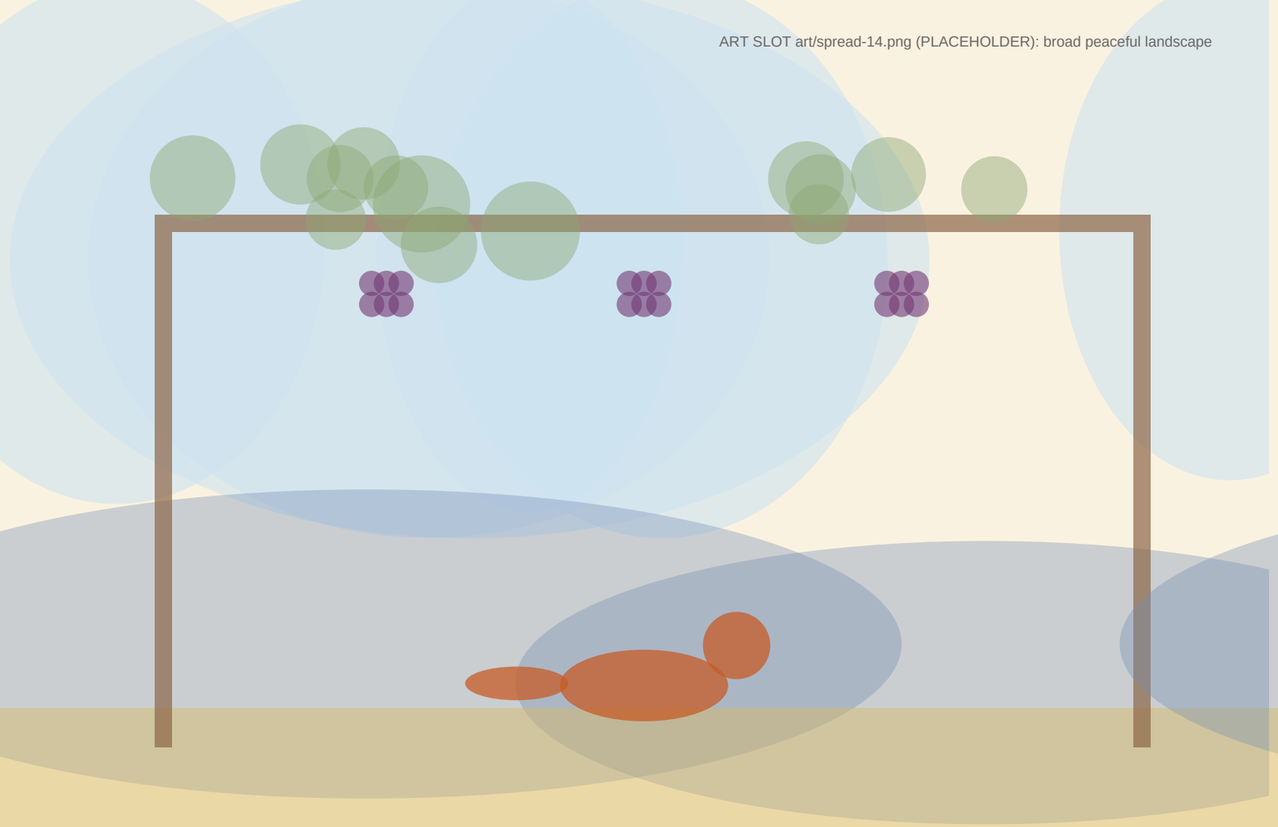

ART SLOT art/spread-13.png (PLACEHOLDER): willow shade

Soon she would look for supper. For now, she could leave the grapes in peace.

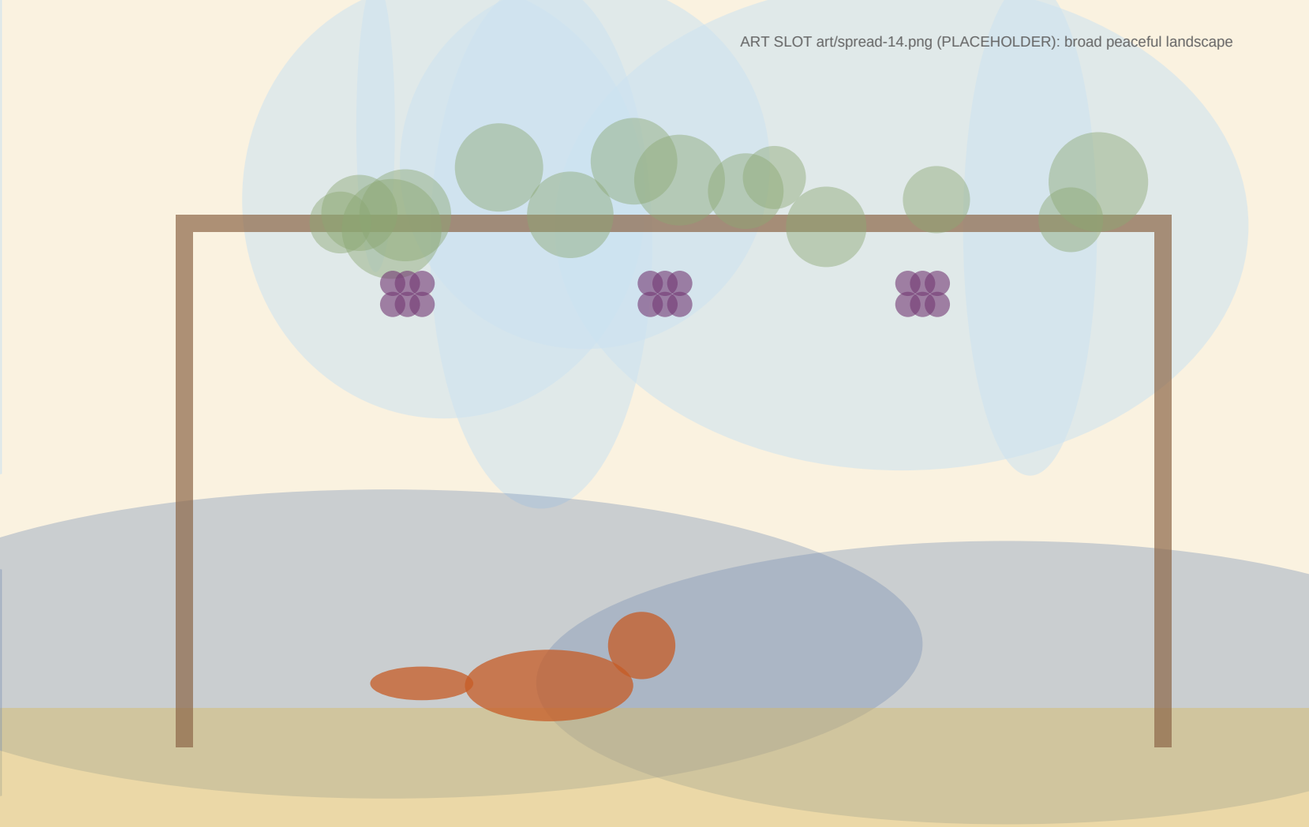

ART SLOT art/spread-14.png (PLACEHOLDER): broad peaceful landscape

When we cannot have something, calling it bad does not make us truthful.

ART SLOT art/spread-14.png (PLACEHOLDER): broad peaceful landscape

With God’s help, we can practice self-control and learn contentment.

But the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, gentleness, and self-control. Against such things there is no law.

Galatians 5:22-23 (BSB)

I am not saying this out of need, for I have learned to be content regardless of my circumstances. I know how to live humbly, and I know how to abound. In any and every situation I have learned the secret of being filled and being hungry, of having plenty and having need.

Philippians 4:11-12 (BSB)
